JAPAN PRESENTS ULTIMATUM TO CHINESE

Eden States Hopes Europe Will Keep Peace Are Stronger

Despite Spain Crisis He Sees Less Danger of General War Than Year Ago

Co-operation Is Needed, He Declares

LONDON (CP)—Before the House of Commons this afternoon Foreign Secretary Eden surveyed the disturbed world and found the hope for peace greater than a year ago.

He frankly pointed out the danger zones and difficulties. Though he said there could be no lasting confidence until an international organization with world membership was entrusted with the arbitration of differences and the conciliation of disputes he told the House:

"I stand at this box today with a greater measure of hope than was possible a year ago that the nations of Europe will yet compose their quarrels and that peace will be preserved.

SKY CLEAR AT POINTS

The past year at times had been tempestuous in the international sphere. Yet the outlook was not wholly black. Storm clouds there were; yet also there were patches of clear sky.

"On the whole the atmosphere is less tense and less lowering than 12 months ago," the Foreign Secretary went on.

The mere fact of recurring crises over Spain, without the whole of Europe being involved, in itself was a cause for modified encouragement, he said. No nation desired the conflict to spread.

Perhaps, too, Spain had taught another lesson. It taught that in modern warfare quick victory was not easily won. War today was not fought between small, highly professional armies. It involved whole populations, their lives and home. While it introduced new horrors it also increased the power of defence. No one today could hope to reap advantage from a long war. It would spell international ruin.

DISPUTE IN ORIENT

Mr. Eden opened with a reference to the Far East. The cause of the incident in north China on July 7 and 8 was still obscure but "all indications encourage us to believe that the present situation, grave as its possibilities undoubtedly are, was not deliberately provoked by either government."

There had been movements of troops by both China and Japan but "we have been assured they are purely precautionary and defensive and that there is no intention whatever of starting hostilities."

Mr. Eden warned that Great Britain's proposals for arms control in Spain were carefully balanced. Each nation got something, but no nation had all it could have liked.

The balance in the plan must not be upset. It must stand or fall as a whole. Any attempt to modify it, except in points of detail, would upset the balance and destroy its usefulness.

If the plan failed it would mean the breakdown of non-intervention and the opening of frontiers to the competitive flow of munitions to Spain. Europe would certainly lose under such (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Inquest Today On Kidd Death

An inquest on the death of John Kidd, East Wellington farmer who died early Saturday morning from chest wounds inflicted by a gun in the hands of his 28-year-old son, Albert, was scheduled at Nanaimo this afternoon, according to provincial police headquarters here.

The son, a fugitive in the woods for a few hours after the shooting, gave himself up Saturday morning, stating the gun had accidentally discharged while he and his father were investigating a noise near the house.

Germany Sells To Francoists

BERLIN — A commercial agreement between Germany and the Spanish insurgent regime has been signed at Salamanca, it was announced official here today. The agreement provides for an increase in the trade exchange between the two countries effective August 1.

RELIEF COSTS SHOW BIG DROP

Victoria Cases $8,000 Below Five Years Ago

Relief costs for the city of Victoria last month were the lowest since the office was opened in 1932, according to the monthly report made by the relief officer this morning.

Family units on relief in Victoria during June of this year cost $17,816.24, as against $18,975.54 for May and $24,034.18 for June of last year.

This was a drop of $1,159.30 over the previous month and a drop of $6,217.94 over the same month of the previous year.

The first month the relief office was opened family units and single men and women cost $31,559.86. In June all cases cost $23,227.46, $8,332.40 more than in June this year.

Single men and women in June cost $5,409.22, as against $5,643.82 for May and $4,763.28 for June of 1936.

For the first time also since the relief office was opened, the number of families on relief last month dropped below the 700 mark.

No Demurrage

OTTAWA—Proposal of railway companies to charge demurrage on grain cars at terminal elevators has been rejected, the Board of Railway Commissioners announced today. Railway counsel contended many cars were now being used simply to store grain.

Governor On Northern Trip

EDMONTON (CP)—Lord Tweedsmuir today told 1,500 teachers attending summer school courses here their functions in preparing people to take part in democratic government was one of the most important in the nation's life.

"Democracy," the Governor-General said in an address at the University of Alberta, "must be governed by discussion."

His Excellency declared he was looking forward to his trip to the Arctic, which will start tomorrow.

Madrid Battle War's Greatest

Insurgents Seek to Dislodge Loyalists From Western Line; Canadians Fight

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier (AP)—Insurgent advances declared today that government forces had been pressed back from Brunete, on the front west of Madrid. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops, dispatches said, hurled their whole strength against the government's advance lines and advanced past Brunete on two sides without occupying the town.

MADRID (AP)—Heavy fighting raged west of Madrid today as insurgents launched a drive to

Mosleyites March Through London

Police struggled to restrain large crowds and made many arrests when 4,000 Fascists, led by Sir Oswald Mosley (indicated by arrow), held a meeting at Kentish Town, and marched through north-east London to Trafalgar Square, where a second meeting was addressed by Sir Oswald. This picture shows the procession leaving Isip Street, Kentish Town, where the first meeting was held. That was a couple of weeks ago. Yesterday, in Southampton, after he had addressed 10,000 people, Sir Oswald was hit in the face by a stone thrown from the crowd. Police escorted him through an angry throng, taking him from the scene without further injury.

EARHART PLANE SEARCH ENDED

Franco Told He Must Free Ship

Britain Calls on Spanish Rebels to Release Ss. Molton

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden disclosed to the House of Commons today that Great Britain has demanded that the Spanish insurgents release the captured British merchantman Molton.

Mr. Eden said the request was sent to Gen. Franco through Sir Henry Chilton, British ambassador to Spain, who is at Hendaye on the Franco-Spanish border.

The note, he said, warned Franco that Great Britain would hold him responsible for any damage to the freighter.

Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced last Wednesday the British ship had been captured by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera.

The Admiralty said the Molton was stopped inside Spanish territory (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Hope Given Up For Flier and Capt. F. J. Noonan as U.S. Ships Leave Mid-Pacific

Honolulu, (AP)—The mystery of the fate of Amelia Earhart and Capt. Fred J. Noonan was felt unsolved today in the south Pacific vastness where they disappeared July 2, as weary searchers gave the pair up for dead and started homeward.

Four United States naval vessels, manned by more than 1,500 heat-plagued men, sailed away empty-handed from the Equator where they had completed the greatest ocean hunt ever launched.

More than 250,000 square miles of ocean, reefs and islands were scoured by ships and planes in efforts to find Miss Earhart and her companion.

Somewhere near the equatorial dot which is Howland Island, the plucky aviatrix and her navigator dropped from the sky in their fuelless land plane on a 2,570-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea, to the mid-Pacific sand spit.

The tousel-headed, 39-year-old flier, known the world over for her aviation exploits, was circling the earth "just for fun," she said, but also to blaze possible new commercial routes.

SHIPS CALLED HOME

The great naval hunt, which began a few minutes after the pair were overdue at Howland, was called off late Sunday when navy authorities estimated they (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

New Work Plan Takes 400 Men

VANCOUVER—Over 400 men went to work here today as a new system of works projects replaced the old system of direct relief allowances for able-bodied men.

The city relief department said 200 of the 600 men notified to report for work today did not appear. It is planned to absorb 100 men a day up to the limit of the amount of work that can be found for them.

Exam Results Out in Week

Matriculation and entrance examination results for British Columbia will be available for publication, this week-end and early next week, the Department of Education announced today. Entrance results will probably be available for publication on Friday, while the matric results should be ready for Monday.

LONG ISLAND HAS QUAKE

People Feel Houses Shake, But New Yorkers Unaware of Tremors

NEW YORK—Manhattan residents were intrigued today by the knowledge they had been next door to an earthquake—but their information about it came solely from out of town.

Many residents of Long Island complained last midnight their homes had trembled for three minutes.

Although the seismographs at Harvard and Weston College, both in Massachusetts, recorded tremors about three minutes long "on or near Long Island" at 11:52 p.m., the seismograph closest to the scene, operated at Fordham University in the city, obtained no record of the phenomenon.

Rev. Father Joseph Lynch, Fordham's seismograph expert, said his recording instruments were busy with a heavy quake which continued nearly 50 minutes, but that the epicentre was 9,000 miles away.

Alberta M.P.P.'s May Have August Session

EDMONTON—A special session of the Alberta Legislature may be called early in August to deal with Social Credit legislation, Premier Aberhart said here today on his return to the city from a two weeks' vacation at Vancouver.

A date for the start of the session has not yet been considered, but may be dealt with at a meeting of the cabinet today, after the Premier has conferred with G. L. MacLachlan, M.P.P., chairman of the Social Credit Board.

CHIANG VOICES CHINA'S STAND

Will Not Surrender Any Territory to Japan, Declares Chieftan

LONDON (CP)—Reuter's news agency today quoted General Chiang Kai-shek, Chinese dictator, as declaring that "the sovereign rights of China shall not be sacrificed even at the risk of war."

"Once war is begun there will be no looking back," the Chinese leader said in a statement to Reuter's at his summer residence in Kuling.

KULING, China (CP)—from Havas)—"Peace or war depends upon Japan. . . . If we permit the loss of a single inch of territory we shall be guilty of an unpardonable crime against our nation," General Chiang Kai-shek declared today.

Addressing a group of Chinese education leaders at his summer headquarters here, the Chinese dictator said China's minimum programme for settlement of the dispute in North China was:

1. The Lukouchiao incident should be solved without infringing on the political or territorial integrity of China.
2. The political status of the Hopeh-Chahar Council as fixed by Nanking should remain unchanged.
3. Local officials named by Nanking should not be removed.
4. The 29th Army should be permitted to remain at the positions it now occupies.

"That is the minimum programme," Gen. Chiang declared. "We want peace, but not peace at any price."

Japanese Leaders Call on Chinese Forces to Cease Alleged Attacks on Patrols and Carry Out Verbal Agreement They Claim Was Made Sunday; Another Armed Clash at One Point Reported

Post Office At Tientsin Seized

TIENSIN (CP from Havas)—Japanese military authorities today took over the Chinese post office here and imposed censorship on all mail.

A meeting of all foreign consular authorities was called for tomorrow to consider the Japanese action.

Battle Soon Near Peiping

TOKIO (CP-Havas)—A Japanese army spokesman indicated to Havas early Tuesday Japan may start large-scale hostilities in China immediately without waiting for arrival of additional reinforcements in north China.

"We can no longer endure the Chinese outrages," he said. "It would be dangerous to await the arrival of all Japanese reinforcements (in north China) because the Chinese forces are ever advancing and threaten to encircle us," he declared.

Piccard Plans To Fly Again

ROCHESTER, Minn.—Dr. Jean Piccard announced today he expects to make a stratosphere flight in a new type aircraft, made up of many small balloons, which his ascension yesterday was declared to have proved is practical.

The scientist returned here today after his tree-top landing Sunday at Lansing, Iowa, six hours after his "Pleades" soared 11,000 feet into the air.

Not Interfering In Organization

Joining of Labor Unions Up to Discretion of Men, Says Hon. G. S. Pearson

The Department of Labor in British Columbia does not propose to interfere in any way with the setting up of organizations among working men of the province as long as there is no law infringement on the part of the men, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor said today.

Questioned regarding the branching of the C.I.O. into Canada and British Columbia, the minister said any such organizing was entirely up to the men and his department did not intend to take part in it.

He pointed out the department was concerned only with the maintenance of law and order as far as such organization was concerned and that as long as order was maintained and there was no intimidation exercised on the men, the department was satisfied.

In explaining his attitude Mr. Pearson said on this point he was in accord with the policy set down by Hon. Norman M. Rogers, federal Minister of Labor, who has also stated the Ottawa authorities would only intervene in instances where the laws of the Dominion required it.

New Banknotes Go Into Circulation

People of Canada This Week Will Have First Bills in English and French

OTTAWA — First samples of the Bank of Canada bilingual note issue will appear in tellers' cages tomorrow. The bank announced during the week-end that the new notes would go into circulation at some of the bank's agencies Monday and it expected all denominations would be in general use within six months.

The present stock of 1935 notes will remain in circulation, but will gradually be replaced as they are worn out and delivered to the bank for cancellation.

The old issue was printed totally in English for the English-speaking sections of the country and totally in French for use in Quebec province. The new notes are, however, all bilingual. On their face, in the borders and four corners, the denomination is engraved prominently in figures and words, the words in the borders and lower corners in English on the left and in French on the right.

The general color schemes of the several denominations are as follows: $1 green, $2 sanguine, $5 blue, $10 purple, $20 olive, $50 orange, $100 sepia brown and $1,000 rose pink.

TIENSIN (AP)—Japanese army headquarters Monday night issued an ultimatum giving the Chinese 29th Army until noon Tuesday (8 tonight PST) to cease alleged attacks on Japanese patrols and fulfill Sunday's verbal agreement to withdraw their troops from the disputed area west of Peiping.

NANKING (AP)—The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported Monday the Japanese army had served a "last warning" on China to settle the north China crisis on Japan's terms or face war. The virtual ultimatum, Domei said, was delivered to Gen. H. Ying-chin, Chinese Minister of War, and General Cheng Chien, Chinese chief of staff, by Major-General Leichi Kita, Japanese military attaché in China.

The news agency said Kita told the Chinese commanders they must "disregard minor differences" on the settlement of the dispute and "save the situation by prompt withdrawal of general (Nanking government) troops and air forces to their original stations."

"INDEPENDENT" MOVES
TOKIO, (C.P. Havas)—Domei (Japanese) news agency reported from Tientsin Monday night that commanders of the Japanese garrison in north China had announced that effective at midnight they would be obliged to take "independent action" as a result of incessant outrages by the Chinese.

This announcement followed a renewal of fighting in the zone west of Peiping, where Japanese and Chinese troops have been in intermittent conflict since July 7. Japanese military reports said Chinese soldiers making a concrete pillbox near Lukouchiao, on the Yungting River 10 miles west of Peiping, fired on a Japanese detachment, gravely wounding Capt. Misayoshi Yamazaki.

The attitude of the Japanese command was described in dispatches as the most determined it has yet assumed in the north China crisis.

Its grim notice to the Chinese was said to declare that unless all Chinese firing ceased the Japanese would begin action Tuesday.

Japanese army leaders were reported to regard the situation as extremely grave and to consider the new clash violated the local oral settlement reached by military leaders of the two sides at Tientsin Sunday.

It was near Lukouchiao that the first Sino-Japanese clash of the present crisis occurred 12 days ago.

TRAINS ATTACKED

By the time eyewitnesses of the mishap arrived at the car, Mr. Cameron was dead. Mrs. Richards sustained only a few scratches.

As soon as the necessary arrangements can be made the Department of Mines will proceed with plans for an independent inquiry into the Behn Mine tragedy at Nanaimo, Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Mines, said today.

Mr. Pearson previously announced the government intended to have a competent outside engineer conduct an inquiry into the accident to determine the cause and responsibility. This action followed findings of the coroner's inquest at Nanaimo that there was certain laxity on the part of government inspectors in the area.

Two British warships also steamed from St. Jean de Luz, France, after the Admiral had announced another British merchantman, the Candeston Castle, had been "captured by an insurgent warship inside Spanish territorial waters."

An admiralty spokesman denied, however, that the sudden departure of the battleship Royal Oak and the destroyer Basilisk was connected with the British ship capture.

The Candeston Castle, which formerly sailed under the name of Seven Seas Spray, was captured Saturday and was understood to be under convoy of insurgent warships to Ferrol, on the north Spanish coast.

The vessel's owners received a telegram from the captain saying he and the crew were safe, but the message did not state the ship's position, nor whether it was still in insurgent hands.

As the Seven Seas Spray, the ship was the first to run the insurgent gauntlet and reach Bilbao last April with food supplies during the insurgent siege.

Both the British warships departed in the direction of Spain so suddenly that five officers of the Royal Oak were left ashore.

Many Injured and Buildings Destroyed in Explosion at Arms Plant

Shanghai—One hundred and ten persons were reported killed and more than 300 were suffering from injuries today following an explosion in the Kiang Pei munitions factory near Chungking in southern Szechuan province late Saturday.

Several hundred buildings scattered along the left bank of the Yangtze Kiang were destroyed by the explosion, the cause of which is unknown.

had exhausted every possibility of ever finding the missing flier. The closing order crushed the last hope of rescue held by George Palmer Putnam, motion picture executive husband of Miss Earhart, who obtained leave from his duties to further her world-flight plans.

"I am deeply appreciative of what the navy has done," the grief-stricken husband declared in Los Angeles. "That is all I can say."

The Lexington with its brood of 63 fighting planes and three destroyers were the last searching vessels. Last week the coastguard cutter Itasca, the minesweeper Swan and the battleship Colorado steamed toward this port after searching thousands of square miles by air and sea.

BIGGEST ON RECORD
Beginning with the search by the Itasca and Swan, stationed in the vicinity of Howland to aid the fliers in the event of trouble, and culminated by the arrival of the Lexington, the search of desolate mid-Pacific expanses attained a magnitude never before seen.

By air and sea the search extended to a radius of between 300 and 600 miles around Howland, 1,500 miles south of here. Bolstered by what some officials thought might be radio distress signals from Miss Earhart's "Flying Laboratory," the search made an ever widening circle around the tiny island.

Amelia Earhart was a true pioneer of the air. Her record aloft was punctuated with an imposing array of "firsts," mostly for women, but containing also several feats that put her in the front rank of the world's fliers, masculine as well as feminine.

She was the first woman to fly the Atlantic, the first of her sex to solo it and the first person to wing away from America to Europe twice. Her solo flight, starting from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on May 21, 1932, established a record for the crossing of 14 hours 56 minutes.

She also was the first woman to compass both trans-Atlantic and trans-Pacific flights and her trip from Hawaii to California on January 11-12, 1935, made her the first flier to do a solo flight over the western ocean.

She was the first aviatrix to cross the continental United States both by stages and non-stop, the first woman to fly an autogyro and, by the same token, the first to wreck one.

In 1920, two years after she had started to fly, she set a women's altitude record of 14,000 feet. In 1929 she established a speed record for women of 158.7 miles an hour, raising the mark in 1930 to 181.18. Ruth Nichols later bettered that speed.

RECEIVED MEDALS

As a crown for her solo trans-Atlantic flight in 1932, she was decorated by President Hoover with the gold medal of the National Geographic Society, the first time it had been presented to a woman. The same year France, Roumania and Belgium bestowed decorations and Congress voted her the Distinguished Flying Cross, the same reward given Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his history-making flight of five years earlier.

She was born in Atchison, Kansas, July 24, 1898. Her father, Edwin E. Earhart, was an attorney and railroad claims agent who made frequent moves about the country and, as a consequence, his daughter attended six different high schools and three colleges. Her only definite graduation was from Hyde Park High School, Chicago, in 1915.

Her first flying lessons were in Los Angeles, where she had gone from work in Columbia University, New York, so as to be with her father. He didn't approve her air-mindedness so she pawned jewelry and a fur coat to get the money for her lessons.

She accumulated 10 years of flying experience here and there and was in Euston in her second year as head of the girls' work of Denison House, a social settlement, when she met George Palmer Putnam, a New York publisher, who was seeking a woman as co-pilot of a trans-At-

Search Brings No Success

This is one of the last pictures taken of Amelia Earhart and Capt. Fred J. Noonan, the mid-Pacific search for whom was abandoned by the United States Navy today. lantic flight backed by Mrs. Frederick Guest of London. That flight, made with Wilmer Stutz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, mechanic, in the tri-motored monoplane "Friendship," was accomplished from Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland, to Burry Port, Wales, on June 18, 1928, in barely under 21 hours. It made her the first woman to cross the Atlantic by plane and brought her fame and monetary rewards.

Incidentally it introduced her to Mr. Putnam. They were married at Noank, Conn., on February 7, 1931.

In December, 1934, she and her husband sailed for Honolulu, taking with them a radio-equipped high-winged monoplane built in 1931 and owned successively by John Henry Meers, Elinor Smith and Miss Earhart. On January 11, 1935, at 10.15 p.m., the aviatrix took off for the California coast, the first pilot to attempt a solo flight over the Pacific. The only other time that this eastward crossing had been accomplished was when Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, as pilot, and Capt. P. G. Taylor, navigator, made it in 14 hours 59 minutes on November 3-4, 1934. Miss Earhart's second-hand plane made the 2,408 miles in 18 hours 16 minutes.

Miss Earhart made two starts on her last round-the-world adventure with Capt. Noonan. On the first she piloted the plane from Oakland to Honolulu, and then crashed during a takeoff from a slippery runway on the Hawaiian field.

On the second attempt she and Capt. Noonan took off from Miami, Fla., and flew by stages to Brazil, across the Atlantic—across Africa and to New Guinea, from where they started for Howland Island and were lost.

HEAVIEST FIGHTING

A government official said the fighting unquestionably was the heaviest of the war.

"The amount of air and artillery activity is absolutely without precedent," he said. "Hour after hour both sides are pounding each other. Slowly it is becoming clear the government is gaining mastery in the air."

"The Flats used by the rebels (insurgents) have shown themselves vulnerable while the gov-

On Ships

HONOLULU (AP)—Capt. Frederick J. Noonan, navigator of Amelia Earhart's ill-fated plane, given up today as lost in the Pacific Ocean, ran away from home at the age of 15 and followed the sea for 22 years before he took to the air.

Adventure was his lot, and during the Great War, with the United States and British forces, he was on three torpedoed ships. He served on windjammers and rounded Cape Horn seven times.

Noonan was born at Chicago in 1893, attended public schools and a private military academy there, and later the London Nautical College.

He left home in 1908 at the age of 15 and shipped aboard a vessel, starting his 22 years of ocean travel and navigation.

After Capt. Noonan had turned to aviation he served as instructor in aerial navigation with various air transport organizations and entered the Pan-American service at Miami in 1930.

A short time before taking off with Miss Earhart on the world-girdling flight, Capt. Noonan divorced Jose Sullivan Noonan at Juarez, Mexico, and eloped with Mary Beatrice Margenella, who operated a beauty parlor shop at Oakland, Calif.

an arrangement. Nations again would be confronted, in intensified form, with those dangers from which the Blum government in France had saved them last year.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

No one wanted the Spanish war to become a European war. "Yet if nations will not co-operate sincerely on the basis which all have accepted, we shall drift perilously nearer to it."

The Foreign Secretary insisted Britain had no desire to interfere with the internal affairs of Spain, but British interest in the integrity of Spain was very real. British disinterestedness in the internal affairs of Spain, Mr. Eden pointedly proceeded, must not be taken to imply Britain was disinterested where British interests were concerned.

"There must be no mistake," the Foreign Secretary declared. "It is important there should be no misconception anywhere. But while we are determined to defend our rights, we have no intention of challenging the rights of others."

"That is why we made the agreement with Italy last January. If the Mediterranean is for us a main arterial road—and it is—there is plenty of room for all on such a road. If we intend to maintain our place on it—and we do—we have no intention of seeking to turn anyone else off it. Least of all do we wish to interfere with those who geographically dwell upon it."

"There is room for all. Free traffic through and out of the Mediterranean is the common interest of Britain and all the Mediterranean powers."

"In the light of certain reports which have reached me, there is one further categorical assurance I should like to give. This country has no intention of pursuing to wards any other country a policy either of aggression or revenge."

"Such a possibility never occurs to the British people. The word 'vendetta' has no English equivalent. The foreign policy of this country never will be based on such a motive."

"If any apprehensions exist on that score they should be instantly allayed. To entertain them is to misconceive British character. We wish to live in peace and friendship with our neighbors in the Mediterranean as elsewhere, for while we will defend our own, we covet none of theirs."

That applied equally to the Red Sea. He said it always had been a measure of British interest that no great power should establish itself on the eastern shore of the Red Sea. That applied to Great Britain as well as to others.

Umez agreement, but the Nan- king government does not recog- nize that agreement, which has never been made public.

A foreign office spokesman said retaliatory Japanese action would depend on the outcome of talks now going on between Chinese Foreign Minister Wan Chung-hui and Shinroku Hida, Japanese charge d'affaires, in Nanjing.

The Chinese ambassador, Hsu Shih-ying, was en route to Tokyo, believed to be carrying important instructions from his government.

In view of the emergency the Tokio government canceled all vacations and the half-day work system. Labor unions and industrial concerns responded by inaugurating collections for funds to be used for war.

DEMAND REJECTED

SHANGHAI (CP-Havas)—The Chinese government Monday rejected the Japanese "ultimatum" demanding immediate withdrawal of all Japanese troops from Hopei Province and a halt of large scale troop movements in north China.

In a note handed to the Japanese Embassy at Nanjing, the Chinese Foreign Office said the demands presented to War Minister Ho Ying-chin last Saturday could not be fulfilled.

The reply was understood to have been couched in conciliatory terms, however, and to have left the way open for further negotiations.

The "ultimatum" was handed to Gen. Ho on Saturday by Col. Sanji Ohkida, assistant military attaché at the Japanese Embassy. It gave the central government 48 hours to halt the entry of troops and military planes into Hopei Province.

Japanese government had accused China of aggravating the north China situation by direct aggression against Japanese interests.

Japanese admitted their planes had fired on the trains at Yuan-shi, 170 miles south of Peiping on the Hankow railroad, but declared troops aboard the trains had fired on the Japanese craft. The Chinese declared their troops had suffered many casualties in the attack.

Japan charged concentrations of Chinese troops had violated an agreement which the Japanese army says forbids the Nanking Chinese government from sending troops into north China.

Heavy concentrations of Chinese troops were said to have been made at Paoingfu, 85 miles south of Peiping. Reports of these movements drew a warning from Japan that she considered them a violation of the two-year-old Ho-

TWO SAILERS DISQUALIFIED

Aura and Onaway Collide With Marker and Put Out of Race

Two of the boats competing in the star and dinghy series at Cadboro Bay on Sunday were disqualified by getting out of hand in a freshening southerly wind and fouling the dolphin off the clubhouse as they were finishing. This race was the fifth of the special series, twice around a two-mile course to Flower Island, Patterson Point, beach mark and home.

The dinghies finished as follows: Kismet, 11.50.35; Penguin, 11.50.40; Bandicoot, 11.51.15; Helen, 11.56.15; Puffin, 12.00.20; Onaway disqualified.

Tern dropped out when she broke a shroud. Ben B. Temple was starter and J. B. Acland, timekeeper.

Stars and dinghies competed in the Longstreth Trophy series on Saturday afternoon in a south-east breeze.

Star finishing times were: Ripples, 4.19.13; Aquila, 4.19.45; Aura, 4.20.40; Mintaka, 4.23.12.

Dinghies finished as follows: Kismet, 4.33.22; Onaway, 4.32.33; Bandicoot, 4.33.40; Penguin, 4.38.05; Helen, 4.39.27; Tern, 4.40.19; Puffin, 4.41.35.

"Der Tag" in the Orient

NO NATION WANTS TO BE BLAMED for war nowadays. In the light of this new morality, Japan and China are pointing accusing fingers across the great wall. Their backyard bickering is confusing for the question of the aggressor in this clash is most important. It may even be the key to a complete understanding of the present situation in the Orient.

If the Japanese attacked the Chinese, as Nanking claims, it would appear that they are either (1) reversing their recent policy or (2) making a pretext.

1. Many observers believe that Japan is beginning her long expected drive against North China with the ultimate aim of turning it into another puppet Manchukuo. This is borne out by a dispatch from Tokyo dated Tuesday saying that "Japan insists on economic exploitation of North China and will use force if necessary to carry out her plan."

On the other hand the recent imperialist policy of Japan appears to have been directed against the U.S.S.R. Under the assumption that the Red Army had been weakened by the executions of its leaders and that Europe was tied up with the Spanish war, the Japanese leaders seemed to have decided that the time was ripe for an attack on the coveted maritime provinces of Russia. Fighting broke out on the Amur River. China was not considered in this campaign. She could be kept quiet by Japanese troop manoeuvres on her own territory.

2. The Japanese attack on North China is a pretext to draw attention away from the Amur River and to give her an excuse to move thousands of troops into Manchukuo for a concerted drive at the Soviet Union.

If the Chinese attacked the Japanese, as Tokyo claims, there seems to be only one explanation. That China is ready to fight Japan. "Der Tag" has arrived. The days of patience and humiliation are over.

Chinese initiative appears to be substantiated by the fact that Japan was caught unprepared. If the Japanese had planned to attack Peiping, they would surely not have had to rush troops by train and road to the scene of the fighting. The hurried meeting of cabinet members, industrial leaders and army officers would indicate that Tokyo was taken completely by surprise.

Then Chiang Kai-shek announced his intention of personally leading the Chinese troops. The cautious Chiang would never have done this—unless he was sure. Another significant fact is that Tsi Ting-kai, commander of the Nineteenth Route Army, which defended Shanghai, is returning to China.

For some time there have been reports of China consolidating its peoples and building its defences. Recently the central government came to an agreement with the Communist area for united action against Japan. This is significant as there have been rumors of an agreement between China and Russia.

A "Prosperity" Problem

THE MOST EXASPERATING FACT IN the path of the man who seeks to raise prosperity by raising incomes and prices is the way in which such increases inevitably tend to cut down the demand for goods.

A bulletin from the Alexander Hamilton Institute points out, as an example, the way this is about to work out in the automobile industry. All signs have been pointing toward a substantial increase in the demand for automobiles in the immediate future. But now a 10 per cent price advance is rumored, and if it comes, it may well offset the expected increase in demand.

Wages in the automobile industry have come up 14.6 per cent since 1929. The price of steel has risen by 13.4 per cent in the same period. Yet automobile prices, far from having advanced, are about 15 per cent under the 1929 level.

Some sort of increase appears to be almost inevitable. When it comes, how far will it go toward offsetting the "increased prosperity" which increases in wages and raw material prices were supposed to effect, particularly in the automobile manufacturing sections?

A Warrior's Reward

FOR A TINY NATION, WRACKED WITH the plagues of the post-war era, Austria often has displayed surprising tenacity of life. With practically no backing, it has resisted various European powers and has kept the sage minds of the League of Nations disturbed since 1919.

Latest evidence of this belligerent tendency is the government law forbidding dancing to military music and prohibiting the "jazzing up" of military theme songs. It could easily be said that Austria is just playing Gaustark again. But in fact, the decree has its elements of generosity and good sense. Why should not military music be reserved as an obligato to a warrior's death? That is about all he can expect to get out of the profession over there.

A Heavenly Visitor

FINSLER'S COMET, FOUND BY A SWISS astronomer on July 4, has now reached naked eye brilliance in the northern sky, and by mid-August will be as bright as Megrez, the star in the Big Dipper where the handle joins the bowl. At that time it will be passing above the dipper and through the stars of the handle.

Just now the comet is in Perseus, a constellation which can be seen low in the northeast, under the W-shaped group of Cassiopeia, about midnight. It is just bright enough to be seen as a fuzzy spot of light without optical aid if the sky is very clear and free from smoke and glare. A small tail has been observed by astronomers, and this might be seen with a pair of binoculars, which will help in locating the object. Its distance is about 110,000,000 miles, but in August it will be less than half as far away. As it approaches, the tail will increase in prominence. About August 15 it will be nearest the sun, at a distance of about 79,000,000 miles.

Curiously, it was just a year ago that Peltier's comet shone in the evening sky, the first to be seen easily without a telescope since 1910. Finsler's is better placed for viewing, however, for last summer the moon was full at the time the comet was brightest, thus spoiling the spectacle to a large extent. Next month the moon will not appear prominently until about the 10th, and it will not be full until the 21st, by which time the comet, near Arcturus, and high in the western sky, will have begun to diminish in brilliance.

Life-saving Expenses

THERE HAS BEEN MUCH TALK ABOUT the enormous expense that the government of her country has been put to in conducting the search today admitted futile for Amelia Earhart. The estimates of the cost of the rescue voyages of the United States battleships and their convoys of planes run from $200,000 up. It has been objected that the taxpayers are put to such an expense because of one individual's desire to tempt fate by making a daring, if not foolhardy, flight.

Leaving out of consideration the fact it has been chiefly on the daring and foolhardy stunting of such pioneers as Amelia Earhart that modern aviation has reached its present stage of development, it should be pointed out that the search conducted in the South Seas during the last 10 days and officially abandoned today really added little in way of navy costs.

It is true it costs money to send ships like the Colorado and the Lexington on a cruise, with their large, well-paid crews. The searching planes burned much gasoline, too. But practically all of this expense would have gone on even if there had been no search at all. The warships would not have been laid off, their fires drawn and their crews paid off, if Miss Earhart had not been lost. Their airplane pilots would have been carrying out their regulation daily practices in formation and other flying. The fact is much money was spent on the Earhart search, but all of it except a few dollars would have been spent anyway, in ordinary naval routine.

Not Exactly Profitable

DESPITE CENSORSHIP AND THE many precautions taken by Graziani to keep his troubles hidden from the world, The London Daily Herald has received a comprehensive report on the internal situation in the still unconquered country of Abyssinia.

Italian posts in many parts of the country are in constant difficulties. Food and ammunition have to be dropped from the air on the besieged men. Fighting between bands of tribesmen, numbering up to 4,000, and Italian troops goes on continually. In Addis Ababa and other towns, the inhabitants, despite threats, brutalities and executions, refuse to co-operate with Italian invaders.

What annoys the Italians the most is that the Abyssinians will not buy anything from them and will not sell them anything. Mussolini is learning something of the cost of conquest.

Notes

Some of the news reel pictures teach us that a great man is one who does not care how his tie looks.

We seldom know how good a movie comedy is. People laugh so loud we cannot hear the funny part.

Is it not strange how much kicking around national honor can endure when a nation is not ready to fight.

We now work one-third of our time for the governments, not counting the other third required to fill out reports.

Card camera pictures of movie stars are useful. They end the myth that one cannot get by in the movies without beauty.

A Hollywood model and a patent medicine millionaire were wed in a Nevada mine, a new way of taking on a lode of responsibility.

The advertising slogan, "Eat More Bread," we are familiar with on this continent has been reversed by Hitler for Germany. To discourage consumption of bread and thereby release grain import funds for armament imports, the Nazi government has forbidden the sale of fresh bread, requiring that bakers hold loaves until they are 24 hours old before putting them on the counters.

GASTRONOMICAL GUIDE

YOU CAN buy maps showing every road, lane and alleyway in Europe. You can buy guide books reciting the history of the smallest hamlet and showing every place that Napoleon sacked, every chateau where Marie Antoinette stopped for a night, every town in which Beethoven wrote a sonata. But there is no Gastronomical Guide, no work by Mr. Gunther on the real Inside of Europe, nothing to warn you of the approach of Schnitzel.

This is a serious matter for anyone of sensitive constitution. Without the slightest warning you are liable to run into schnitzel at any moment. Indeed, I spent most of my time on the Continent trying to avoid it, but generally I failed. Like the Grand Army limping home from Moscow, our little tour might well be recorded in the history books as the Retreat from Schnitzel.

It would come upon us from ambush in the most innocent disguises. We would point to some harmless name on the bill of fare, thinking, now, at last, we have found a safe dish, but almost invariably it would come schnitzel, underdone veal fried in bread crumbs and of the exact consistency of an inner tube. Thus I have retreated before schnitzel from the western boundary of Switzerland down to Budapest, and never escaped it until I got back to the middle of France.

SEARCH FOR THE WURST

THE SAUSAGE disaster was equally serious. In Germany, I said to my friends, one eats sausage. It is the national dish. It is one of the highest achievements of German culture. It is an art that we barbarians of America have never mastered. I shall luxuriate and wallow, I said, in German culture.

So on the first night in Germany, in a little town just over the border, I ordered sausage. The red-cheeked German waitress didn't know what sausage meant, and I didn't learned yet that it was really wurst, pronounced as with a "v." The manager, a jolly egg-shaped fellow, appeared in the garden where they served the meals. I told him I wanted sausage. He had never heard of it. I indicated the shape of it with my fingers. "Like a zeppelin," I said. "Like the Graf Zeppelin." A temporary tinge of intelligence came into his eyes but soon faded. "Look," I said, and drew a picture of a sausage on the back of the menu.

His eyes lit up again. "Ja! Ja!" He bustled off. "A little imagination," I said to my friends, "is a useful thing." In a few minutes the waitress came back with a flat slab of schnitzel, covered with onions. After that I gave up drawing sausages. But up in the Tyrol one day when we stopped for tea and we didn't know how to order toast, I thought up another clever dodge. I picked up a bread roll and lit a match under it. "Ja! Ja!" said the lady of the house and hurried to her kitchen.

"You see," I said, "you only have to use your imagination." "You were always bright," my friends said. In a moment the lady of the house was back again with rolls all steaming hot and damp out of the oven. (We never did get any toast east of the Rhine.) In a few minutes she brought in a plate of schnitzel.

THE JEW IN MUSIC

From The Ottawa Journal

Mr. Hector Charlesworth, in his article in The Evening Journal, has some interesting things to say about the composition of the Promenade Symphony Orchestra, about whose successful and highly popular summer concerts Mr. Charlesworth wrote a fortnight ago. Eighty per cent of the violinists are Jews, Jews "full of artistic zeal," and Mr. Charlesworth believes the marked improvement in this orchestra in recent years largely may be attributed to an increase in the Jewish population of Toronto; to the automatic increase in the number of Jews in violin classes both in the schools and privately conducted, with the result that more of these artistic people qualify themselves for high-class orchestra work.

It is Mr. Charlesworth's observation that Jewish students, with their musical instinct, their eagerness to improve their knowledge and technique, their willingness to practice long hours, have come to hold a very important place in Toronto orchestras, Toronto's musical life generally. The same is true, we think, of all cities, true of the other arts, true also of other fields of endeavor. In the schools, for example, Jews win far more prizes than might be expected of their numerical strength. There, as in music, they demonstrate their gift of concentration on the job in hand, their ability to disregard the unessential.

Here and in every country Jews have made and are making a valuable contribution to public culture. So sound a critic as Mr. Charlesworth takes note of this fact and points to it as an explanation of a famous orchestra's success.

DON'T FORGET YOUR WILL

From Good Housekeeping

A man has only one estate to leave. There is only one way to be sure it gets where he wants it to go, only one time to be sure that results are achieved as planned. A will is the answer. Properly drawn. Today.

Even so small a matter as failure to punctuate correctly may put the amateur will-maker's heirs in a hole. There must be the proper number of witnesses. The signature must be properly accredited. And inheritance laws, which differ in different provinces, must be taken into account.

Says English Labor 20 Years Ahead

NEW YORK. SAILING ON THE Normandie on his return to England, Sir Josiah Stamp made the following statement to the press on labor conditions in the United States, which he has been studying: "I don't think you're going to be free of trouble for a long time. In England we freely recognize the right of trade union leaders to represent their men in bargaining. On the whole this works out very well for us."

"Of course, I don't know what kind of laborers nor what kind of labor leaders you have in this country."

"We're twenty to thirty years ahead of you in handling this great problem."

"America has been slow in recognizing labor. You must recognize it! In Great Britain it was a question of the old state of mind, the reactionary spirit, against arbitration and discussion. Today in America, it is the old state of mind versus force."

Shark-like Fossils Seen As Missing Links

NEW YORK.

FOSSIL sea-creatures that scientists have always regarded as sharks were demoted to the lower position of missing links between the true fishes and more primitive forms like lampreys, by Prof. David M. S. Watson of University College, London, in an address before the New York Academy of Sciences.

The extinct shark-like animals are known as acanthodians. The name comes from the Greek word for thorny or spiny; the acanthodians were rather prickly customers in their day. Each body fin was armed with a stout, sharp spine. They appeared first in Devonian times, about 300,000,000 years ago, and lasted about 100,000,000 years, until the Permian.

Acanthodians were always taken to be primitive sharks because of their general body outline and because such remains of their skeletons as were found appeared to be in general shark-like. However, Prof. Watson has found such marked differences in braincase, jaws, gill arches and other structural elements that in his opinion it is evident "they belong to a grade of structure more primitive than, and in a wide sense antecedent to, that of the true fish."

He therefore considers them to be a special and separate group of vertebrates, lower than the fishes and intermediate between them and the more primitive lamprey group.

Extinction Seen For Five Animals

OGDEN, Utah.

Five wild creatures of plain and mountain, once plentiful in the West, are pictured by a forest official as making a last stand for the right to live.

"The prairie chicken, the turkey vulture, the bald eagle, the wolverine, and the grizzly bear—all five are in danger of passing from the American wild life picture," said Orange A. Olsen, assistant regional forester in charge of fish and game.

"Unless steps to save them are carried out they may follow the extinction trail taken in recent years by eight species of bird-life, ten species of animals."

One conservation step, Olsen said, has been the amendment of national forest service regulations to permit designation of "vanishing species" areas.

But, he added, establishment of these areas must be undertaken as an additional forest service activity without special appropriation. The U.S. biological survey and sportsmen's organizations.

PASSING THEM BY From The Seattle Star

Novellists and essayists have had a good deal to say about the "lost generation" in recent years. Bernard M. Baruch, in a commencement address at South Carolina's famed preparatory school, The Citadel, the other day offered some extremely sensible remarks on the subject.

"There is an element of tragic sadness," he said, "in the hundreds of thousands sifted through the terrible sieve of the depression and now left helpless on the barren strands of the WPA. Now, when real recovery has come after several years of their enforced idleness, most of them remain unemployed because the procession has passed them by, and for one reason or another they have become unfit to take their place in our economic revival."

"These are the derelicts—the economic casualties of one of the greatest catastrophes that ever blasted this country."

Shall we have the intelligence and goodwill, do you suppose, to apply ourselves to the job of getting these casualties rehabilitated?

PROLIFIC PIGEONS

From Our Dumb Friends The rapid multiplication of pigeons has become a serious problem, particularly in France. In such cities as Paris, Bordeaux and Marseilles the various monuments are so defiled by them that authorities have been seeking some way to stop reproduction. The destruction of the eggs has been advocated by many on the theory that 100 pigeons contented and well nourished are better than 1,000 dying of hunger. This same problem is more and more facing certain cities in this country.

But that a people should slaughter its own children or allow them to be mowed down by foreign mercenaries—this out-herods Herod and brings horror to a climax.

THANKS FROM HILL'S CORNER

To the Editor:—We would like to thank all the 101 entrants for their splendid co-operation in making such a wonderful success of Hill's Corner jubilee trade parade and carnival.

Thanks are also due to those who assisted financially and to the parents who so enthusiastically helped their children in the first venture of its kind in Victoria West.

We sincerely hope this will be the first of many such events.

SOME SPANISH HISTORY

To the Editor:—Now, in regard to the letters on Spain and Russia Mr. Hartnell is quite correct in regard to communism and anarchism. I agree with him on that subject. But in spite of that I would wish to advise him to look up history and find out what was the real cause of this struggle in Spain. The history of Spain, as well as the history of France, includes a long list of struggles against invaders from time to time. In the early centuries Spain was invaded by the Moors, and during that time barbarous cruelties were carried out by the Moors on a large scale. These were repeated in the centuries of struggle required to drive the Moors back. The last of the Moorish Kingdom of Spain fell in 1492, the same year America was discovered by Christopher Columbus.

PLANS EVENING MOTOR TRIPS

To the Editor:—At the annual outing for the aged inmates of the Old Men's Home and Jubilee Hospital Annex, held last Wednesday, it occurred to me that more frequent outings could be arranged, and the scope extended to include the inmates of the Aged Ladies' Home and the children of the Orphanage; the idea in mind being that it should not be difficult to organize weekly evening motor trips during the balance of the summer months. I am confident these outings would be most highly appreciated. In order to facilitate the carrying out of this plan, it will be necessary for car owners willing to co-operate with me in this respect to kindly leave their names and phones at the office of the Empire Realty Co., Ltd., 1008 Broad Street. As and when a sufficient number so register, I shall arrange each outing to suit their several convenience.

My co-trustee, Mr. J. H. Beatty, is in full accord with this movement.

CREEDS AND DOGMAS

To the Editor:—To me it would appear dishonorable towards God were I to allow to go unchallenged a letter appearing in your paper some time ago, signed by L. K. Eekman.

Replying to the first part of the letter concerning Mussolini and the apparent usurpation of his authority, I refer him to a passage of Ephesians 1: 11, the last clause of which says that "God is working all things after the counsel of His own will"; also, Romans 13: 2, says "The powers that be are ordained of God." Very much in line with the above is 1 Timothy 2: 1-3, which will be read with profit.

It is our privilege and duty to pray for all those that are in authority, no matter who or where they are, the reason being that they have been ordained of God to carry out His purpose of the ages.

Referring to the latter part of Mr. Eekman's letter: "Man has been born a free agent, and has the choice of his own eternal state." I would respectfully say the same as the Lord said to the Sadducees as recorded in Mark 12: 24: "Do ye not therefore err, because ye know not the Scriptures, neither the power of God."

If for one thank God that I had no part nor lot in the choice of my destiny, I am content and simple enough to leave that with God, for I read in Ephesians 1: 4, that I have been chosen in Christ from before the overthrow, also Romans 8: 28-30, says that God has predestinated me, called me, justified me, sanctified me, and will some day glorify me, surely there is not much of my own will or choice in my salvation.

Is it not time that the many man-made and God-dishonoring creeds and dogmas be cast aside and in their stead a full acceptance be made of God's inspired revelation regarding His Son and the reconciliation of the universe in, by and through Him. Colossians 1: 16-20.

TRUTH LOVER.

FAIR PLAY—ACCIDENT TO ORIENT

To the Editor:—P. K. Winch, secretary to the "Anti-Oriental Penetration League of B.C.," after abusing Cheriton Hilgate (who will have little to worry about in his defence), suggests that, if Mr. Hilgate has his way, "history will repeat itself, and the British Empire will decay by saturation of unassimilable races, as did the Greek nation, viz., ... and goes on to quote from an unnamed historian a long statement of facts which, instead of supporting his amazing distortion of the truth, clearly goes to show that Greece's decline during the Peloponnesian war was not at all the result of penetration of barbarian hordes from without, but primarily at least was brought about by jealousies and rivalries among her free states, their revolt against an Athenian hegemony and tyranny and an attempt by Sparta to impose her military oligarchy.

I cannot use your space to quote at any length from Dr. H. G. Robertson; but just this "wee bittle" from his "Story of Greece" (A U.B.C. text-book) is so apropos that it must go: "The Peloponnesian war started from certain comparatively trivial quarrels, but its true origin was in the inveterate jealousies of the Greek states."

All this has no bearing whatever on our denial of rights of citizenship to our Canadian Orientals of three generations; but, it makes a fine "smoke-screen" for a cause, an unholy crusade, which, having no shred either of logic or of common sense to bolster it, falls back for justification on prejudices, hatreds and jealousies. These are the very elements which in the fifth century B.C. went to kindle strife, which have so often wrecked this world since then, and which from their very nature must and ever will provoke war.

Again to quote from "The Story of Greece" (Chap. 28, p. 163), "An English scholar writes—The history of the world consists mostly of necessary institutions, the issuing in the memory of those ages of the people's currency is an enigma few in number, in which the duty of government, above itself and burst into flame should never be farmed out or fruit. ... Such a period was banking corporations upon any the beginning of the fifth century."

In Greece, ... It seemed to be the beginning of a time. But instead we meet one of the tragedies of history. That tragedy was caused, not by failure to absorb "unassimilable races," it came about through the evolution of the great truth that no nation can for long remain a great free state and at the same time tolerate slavery, forswear democracy and submit itself to a dictatorship or oligarchy.

Those who had the good fortune to hear Rev. Dr. Brewin at the Metropolitan Church will remember that the substance of my last quotation was enunciated by him—almost in the very words of that "English scholar"—that Dr. Brewin endorsed it as an incontrovertible fact, as an ineluctable truth embodied in the unchanging law of evolution formulated not by man to display his wisdom, but by some Higher Power, to manifest His love and to carry on the great scheme of man's redemption.

British Columbia is "some part of the world;" "such a period" have here and now; let us not slip this glorious chance because of pusillanimous fears, nor for any pet reasons of pride or prejudice, nor even (and this is the acid test) thinking of "fifty lucre" and what that stands for. On some of our dollars we rest "In God we trust." Let us make that really true and show it in our deeds.

SOCIAL CREDIT AND LAND VALUES

To the Editor:—It would seem that Rev. Mr. Jull visualizes the economics of Henry George as a kind of side-kick to Social Credit—an immaterial adjunct, a taxidermy mechanism on which the combined may be diverse opinions by intelligent people.

Tolstoy took a different view. He said: "People don't argue with Henry George; as soon as the man of Mr. Jull's education and pipe-doubtful ability does himself to the Second Battle much less than justice in brutal Canadian Scottish Band, and aside the works of a greaser Pipe-Major Donald Cameron without due examination. In the grandstand they were greeted by the chieftain, Col. Ross Napier; Duncan Mac-not the landlords but the bank. The evidences, according to Mr. Jull, listen: "I am of the opinion that if residuary value of land is to rest somewhere, the landlords are even more deserving of it than the banks extended his good wishes for the Let us see. The banks take a census of the gathering. It was of our cash; keep our accountably fitting that the Scottish with accuracy; hand us out the the last cent courteously when called to Victoria's jubilee upon. They are most efficient in this particular managed; give us a wonderful service in transmitting credit from place to place; perform a hundred and one good offices for us and are at all times ready to do good service.

What does the mere landholder do? What parsnips does he butter? He renders no services, produces no wealth and delivers no goods. Can Mr. Jull point out in what way he is "more deserving" than the banks?

Mr. Jull is also clearly in error when he speaks of the cause of increasing land values: "The flight of money into land and bidding up of land prices." Land values result from the presence and activities of the people (of course, there are land booms deliberately engineered in new countries, where there are many owners) and increase with every advance of civilization, irrespective of any bidding up or anything the mere landlord may do. We have seen a quadrupling of those values per unit of population in our own time, that is, landlordism takes four times as much from each citizen as it did half a century ago and returns as of old—nothing!

This increase in land values is what made John Stuart Mill coin the phrase "unearned increment." Of course, it is earned all right, but by the community and, therefore, belongs to the community, although we are simple enough to allow the proceeds to slip into private pockets.

What checks land booms has little to do with the volume of money; it is the increasing inability of business to continue paying ground rent on speculative land prices. Bankruptcies then begin, the boom blows up and thousands of underfeet, who have been tempted into the occupation of withholding vacant lots, are impoverished by paying taxes and getting no return.

Mr. Jull asks: "How is the community to finance its own growth in production unless money volume grows as production grows?" There is always plenty of money. It is quite commonplace for money to liquidate its own value twenty times over in the course of a day. With natural resources open and free, workers can get all the credit they need at the nearest store.

I may say, though, that while the banking is an admirable and necessary institution, the issuing in the memory of those ages of the people's currency is an enigma few in number, in which the duty of government, above itself and burst into flame should never be farmed out or fruit. ... Such a period was banking corporations upon any the beginning of the fifth century."

RED RUST IN SAANICH

To the Editor:—A few days ago I sent two samples of wheat to town and they were put on exhibition in The Times windows. They were grown in Saanich. One of the samples was killed by rust. This was due to rapid growth on rich land, and I expect it was grown on very low ground. The circulation of the plant had been impaired by frost. Ever so little will do this in the critical time.

Rust is very common and its prevalent every year. It takes very bad infestation to kill any field of grain, but it does reflect more or less in the grade and in the yield.

I don't know what variety the samples were I brought down, but I will say this: The root system in each was the worst I have ever witnessed as the number of immature off shoots from each plant warrants chucking the lot and seeking good seed.

SCOTCH GAMES WERE POPULAR

More Than 2,000 Attended Jubilee Highland Gathering Saturday

More than 2,000 persons witnessed Saturday afternoon the very successful Highland gathering at Macdonald Park, held under the auspices of the combined Scottish societies of the city, which was formally opened at 2 o'clock by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

Henry George; as soon as the man of Mr. Jull's education and pipe-doubtful ability does himself to the Second Battle much less than justice in brutal Canadian Scottish Band, and aside the works of a greaser Pipe-Major Donald Cameron without due examination. Mr. Jull is also clearly in error when he speaks of the cause of increasing land values: "The flight of money into land and bid-

Wind Brings Heavy Smoke

Residents of Victoria were momentarily alarmed on Saturday evening by the appearance here of dense smoke clouds which were first thought to have come from a huge forest fire nearby. The haze proved to be the result of an unusual cross wind which blew dense clouds of smoke across the straits from a large forest fire near Mount Baker. Later in the evening the smoke produced an unusual effect on the sun, which appeared like a glowing red ball through the haze as it settled over the Sooke Hills.

Recent Weddings

WHITE-O'HARA

Catherine Theresa, only daughter of Mrs. Edward O'Hara of Crescent Road, and Mr. George Rollin White, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney White, 1320 Minna Street, were quietly married July 15, at Salmo, B.C. They are now at home at the Queen Mine, Salmo, following a wedding trip to Nelson.

HILL-WILLIAMS

The little church of St. Aidan at Mount Tolmie was the scene of an interesting ceremony Saturday when Phyllis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williams, Cedar Hill Road, became the bride of Mr. William George Hill, youngest son of Mrs. Hill, Shelbourne Street and the late Mr. Hill. Rev. T. G. Griffiths officiated at the quiet ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride looked charming in a white basket-weave suit, worn with a pale blue lace straw hat and blue accessories, and adorned with a corsage bouquet of gardenias and pale pink rosebuds. Miss Edith Williams was her sister's bridesmaid, in a turquoise blue suit of Miami cloth and a white turban and veil. She wore a corsage bouquet of Johanna Hill rosebuds.

During the signing of the register Miss Barbara Dawson sang "Because," accompanied at the organ by Mr. Percy Boorman. Mr. Ted Miles attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Mr. Gilbert Brown and Mr. Kenneth Jennings.

Following the church ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Williams entertained at a small reception at their home. The bride and groom stood beneath a floral arch to receive the good wishes of their friends. Supper was served from a table centred with the bride's cake, which stood between vases of pale sweet peas and gypsophila and tall pink tapers.

The bride's mother was smart in a gown of black silk crepe, with dusty rose accessories, and Mrs. Hill Sr. also chose black, with white accessories. Both wore corsage sprays of white carnations and swansonia.

On their return from a wedding trip to the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will take up residence on Mayfair Drive, Mount Tolmie.

DICKINSON-FISHER

St. John's Church was filled with an interested congregation Saturday evening for the ceremony which united Eileen Annie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Fisher, Cameron Street, and Mr. James Dickinson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dickinson, Pandora Avenue. Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick officiated.

Mr. Fisher gave his daughter in marriage and she was charming in a gown of white silk net over satin, with a long full skirt ruffled from waist to hem, and finished at the V-neck with a pearl ornament. The bolero jacket had a ruffled border and short puff sleeves, and her circular veil of tulle fell over her face and was arranged beneath a shirred turban trimmed with orange blossoms, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and sweet peas and butterfly roses.

Attending the bride were Miss Georgina Cockburn and Miss Yvonne Fisher, her sister. They wore pink and blue flowered satin frocks respectively and off-the-face hats of point d'esprit to match their frocks, trimmed with ribbon streamers and clusters of forget-me-nots across the front, and carried bouquets of pink roses and snapdragons and mauve and pink sweet peas. Mr. David Dickinson, youngest brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

At the reception later, at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Fisher was in blue silk crepe and hat en suite and Mrs. Dickinson chose a gown of blue figured silk and matching hat.

The reception rooms were lovely with gladioli, sweet peas and carnations. A three-tiered cake centred the supper table, surmounted by a family heirloom, a miniature cupid and bell, which had stood on the cake of the bride's parents at their wedding. Pink cluster roses and sweet peas in matching shades were used in decoration of the table.

When she left for her wedding trip, Mrs. Dickinson donned a "Queen Mary" rose knitted suit, a rose jigger coat and a grey hat, with grey accessories. On their return they will live in Victoria.

Among the many handsome presents were an electric sandwich toaster, waffle iron and Mrs. D. W. Holyoak entertained a number of friends last week at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Ruth Hogarth. Pink rambler roses and blue larkspur provided a pretty setting for the event. The gifts were presented in a hat box trimmed with yellow crepe paper and tied with rainbow colored streamers, the hat box was concealed under a quaintly dressed doll. Tea was served during the afternoon. The invited guests were Mrs. W. Grant, Mrs. E. Hogarth, Mrs. J. Gibson, Mrs. P. Brien, Mrs. L. Holyoak, Mrs. J. Fox, Mrs. A. McCabe, Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. J.

Swimming and boating were enjoyed in the morning and an impromptu baseball game followed by a dip, filled up the afternoon. Misses Tita Hall, Babe Pennock and Messrs. Brian Burdon Murphy, Denis Humphreys and Dick Muirhead were in charge of the picnic.

Honoring Miss Thelma Ostler, whose marriage to Mr. Ronald V. Reid will take place this month, the Bacpo Girls entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Kay White, Grant Street, Friday evening. The reception rooms were gay with yellow and blue summer flowers and crepe paper streamers. Upon a small table in the drawing-room the many pretty gifts were arranged about a miniature Bacpo truck. Mazie Kinley, on behalf of the Bacpo Bowling League, presented Miss Ostler with a silver cake plate as Miss Ostler and Mr. Reid are both members of the bowling club. During the evening games and contests were played. CAME FOR DAY, STAYED A WEEK

Mrs. S. L. Rosenberg Falls in Love With Victoria On Her First Visit

"I came here to spend one day and I've stayed for a full week," said Mrs. Sarah L. Rosenberg of Chicago as she left the Empress Hotel this morning to board the Ss. Princess Elizabeth for Seattle, en route home after a prolonged visit to the northwest, including a trip to Alaska.

"I've had a delightful time in Victoria," she said. "That goes without saying, otherwise I wouldn't have remained for a week, would I? I have found the people so kind, the weather so perfect and the setting of Victoria so beautiful that I just had to remain in town a week and get to know the place as well as possible in that time."

NOT HOT HERE

Mrs. Rosenberg does not like heat, so each summer she leaves Chicago. She remains away for about six weeks.

"Victorians told me last week it was pretty hot here," she said. "Maybe it was for Victoria, but I thought it was cool. Why, I could always use a few blankets at night. When it's really hot, you know, blankets become unbearable."

"Your salespeople are so delightful, so courteous and so honest. Why, I was told in a number of stores I could do better in certain articles in the United States. Imagine that. Some may say that is slow business, but I was so impressed I bought other things I could not obtain in the United States. And some of the salesfolk who served me phoned me up at the hotel to see if they could take me for drives. Of course, I went, and had a wonderful time."

There is only one thing Mrs. Rosenberg would miss in Victoria and that would be fine music. In Chicago there is a

ANDREW and IMOGENE

By ROE FULKERSON

"What are you thinking about?" asked Imogene suddenly. "I was wondering about women," said Andrew.

"You would be?" "I acknowledged it."

"Is it something you can tell me without embarrassment?" "I was wondering why they abandoned petticoats."

"They were unnecessary," said Imogene with dignity. "Is a slip necessary?"

"It is, if a dress is thin." "Wouldn't a petticoat be better?"

"Why?" "On account of the suspenders on the slip. A slip is always slipping."

"Is my slip showing?" asked Imogene nervously. "Not now, but most women's slips generally are."

"When?" "After they have sat down and stood up; after they have stooped over and straightened up; after they have been dancing; while they are dancing, and when they have been driving a car, and almost every other time."

"That's not true! I know that mine—" "I know all about yours. I can see it when you can't," said Andrew. "The trouble is not with the slip, but with those skinny little suspenders which go over your shoulders to hold it up. They are always showing, always slipping their moorings and going out on the tide. They fall down off your shoulders; they slip up around your neck as though you were about to be hung; they slip hither and yon like an inexperienced skater on slick ice. You are always pushing and pulling them, or feeling to see if they are on straight. It just seems to me that if you wore a petticoat which fastened around your waist, you could get rid of those suspenders and be a lot happier and a lot less sloppy and—"

"Retract that word!" snapped Imogene. "I am not sloppy and I never was sloppy and—"

"It was not intended personally," said Andrew. "You are quite the neatest woman I know, but your suspenders do slip now occasionally. I am for going back to fundamentals and putting the good old-fashioned petticoat in its place."

"Are you all through?" "I have said my say," said Andrew stoutly.

"Do you know what I have on above my waistline right now?" "A rather pretty white silk dress," said Andrew.

"What else?" "A white slip which is true to its name. It slips."

"That's far enough," said Imogene firmly. "I am not going to ask you any more questions. There are limits beyond which you cannot go in the matter of my clothes. If you do not realize—"

"I realize," interrupted Andrew. "Then put that master mind of yours to work solving the problem! Turn the bright light of that great intellect of yours to some solution of the slipping slip and make it so it will no longer slip. Let that massive brain of yours make women eternally grateful to you by inventing a slipless slip, one which requires no suspenders, one which is eternally even with the skirt line, and neither too short nor too long. "Until you have perfected your invention, turn your criticism to the balloon tire effect of your own shirt above your belt; try to keep the bottoms of your trousers from touching the ground behind your heels and bagging over your instep, or else being too short at the bottom. Sloppy? Show me a man who has a right to use that word to a woman, and I will show you a slipless slip!"

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline but do not compel"

TUESDAY, JULY 20, 1937

According to astrology this is not an important day in planetary direction. The morning hours should be fairly favorable for trade and commerce.

For men and women engaged in practical, constructive work there is promise of profit. This is a time to stick to what is certain in the way of business returns.

Building will continue to be pushed persistently through coming weeks when public edifices as well as private homes will multiply.

Women should watch their words with unusual vigilance. Those who hold government positions should be exceedingly careful if they wish to avoid peril.

While sensational reports regarding espionage will be widespread and exaggerated, the effects of careless conversation are to increase, owing to certain psychic forces active at this time.

Motion pictures continue to advance toward supreme heights of artistic achievement. New inventions will add to their charm.

Science now may attain novel significance, astrologers foretell. Changes that Americanize foreign cognomens will be numerous and family trees will receive odd graftings.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the luxury of a year of fairly good luck. Domestic problems, however, will disturb certain ones.

Children born on this day probably will be serious in nature, difficult to understand and exceedingly intelligent. Subjects of this sign achieve success through determined effort.

Sir Richard Owen, anatomist, was born on this day 1804. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Frances Januscheck, actress, 1930; Augustin Daly, dramatist and producer, 1832.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it as well to say, "Pardon me," as to say, "I beg your pardon," when you have pushed against another person?
 2. Should a young woman give her seat to a much older woman who is standing in a street car?
 3. Is it polite to comment on a friend's weight?
 4. If one is a good friend of a person who is ill in a hospital, may he ignore a "No Visitors" sign?
 5. Should one talk of sickness when visiting a person who is ill?
- What would you do if—
You take flowers to a patient in a hospital—
(a) Give them to a nurse to put in water?
(b) Take them into the hospital room and arrange them yourself?
(c) Hand them to the patient?
- Answers—
1. "Pardon me" is a command and so is not gracious.
2. Yes, if the one standing is really "old." Otherwise she might not appreciate it.
3. Only if you know that the person is trying to gain or lose—and your comment is an encouragement.
4. No, unless he is asked to go in.
5. No—not his or any the visitor has known or heard of. Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a).

Calling All Dogs!

By Albert Payson Terhune

He is the Slowest Drinker

The dog, with his cousins, the wolf and the fox, is, I think, the slowest drinker in all the animal kingdom. Incidentally, he is perhaps the fastest eater. Most other animals can suck great mouthfuls of water into their systems, in long gulps. So can humans. Even a bird can fill its mouth with water, in one motion. But your dog must thrust his tongue into the water, and then flick back into his mouth the very small amount of it that the cup-like end of his tongue can convey thither.

This, probably, is not more than a teaspoonful at a time. Often considerably less. And he must go on lapping these tiny quantities of water and getting them transferred thence to his throat, until his thirst is quenched. That is why, often, he will go on lapping for minutes at a time. He is not drinking too much. But he has to drink with tedious slowness. (Members of the cat family lap, too, but much more rapidly than dogs.) Many a time I have counted the number of noisy laps required by one of my dogs in assuaging an average thirst. Again and again, I have counted well beyond a hundred repetitions before the tired tongue ceased its lapping.

U.S. Leads Germany In Davis Cup Tennis

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

AS THE result of that last edition of the All-Star game, some of the boys are suggesting that the American League draft from the National next season.

They're saying that Joe Medwick is in the wrong loop.

Lou Gehrig cracked something about playing for five more years in the older wheel when he's through in the junior.

The circuits are not that far apart, however.

Balance is the most important thing in baseball, which is why the Chicago Cubs now are favored to meet the New York Yankees in the world series this fall.

Next to the Yankees the Cubs are the most thoroughly balanced team in the game.

Gabby Hartnett is a balance wheel in himself.

Familiar with opposing batsmen, Hartnett steadies young pitchers like Clay Bryant and Clyde Shoun.

Dizzy Dean attested to Hartnett's ability along this line when, following the All-star game, he refused to admit that he failed to heed the big backstop's advice on Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig.

Dean fed them fast balls instead of curves, and it was all over but the shouting.

Ken O'Dea and Johnny Bonfanti round out the finest catching staff in baseball in Wrigley uniforms.

This is a great measure accounts for the Cubs having the smoothest pitching staff in the majors.

Chicago sacrificed the great right-hander, Lon Warneke, for balance.

The deal with the St. Louis Cardinals gave the Bruins Jimmy Collins, who remade the infield into the most polished in the business.

Chilly Willie Terry admitted that he could not put Third Base- man Stanley Hack on the National League All-stars.

"What do you want me to have, the entire Cub infield?" asked the Cheerless Leader of the Giants.

It would not have been a bad idea.

Billy Herman, a star defensive player as well as a batter, roomed with Billy Jerges. He is credited with giving Jerges tips that made that remarkable shortstop a .300 hitter.

Joe Marty came through to round out the Cubs' outfield. Frank Demaree is the batting spark of the outfit, and Augie Galan again is at home as the leadoff man.

Everything happened to the Cubs in the first month, yet they never were more than five games out of first place.

It will take an avalanche to stop them now.

In 1936 the Yankees ran away with the American League race to triumph by the spectacular and record margin of 19½ games.

"Playing over their heads," scoffed many of the doubters, especially those in their own league. Against the Giants, the Yankees smashed out a world series victory in six games.

In the All-star game, with five of their key men playing, they made it a one-team show, driving in most of the runs, scoring most of them, and supplying the outstanding pitching performances of the day. And in 1937 the Yankees are drawing away from the rest of the league in exactly the same fashion they did one year ago.

This year no charge of lucky breaks can be made against the Yankees.

They have suffered a series of injuries and misfortunes enough to knock any lesser team out of the running.

Monte Pearson, pitching hero of the 1936 series, has hardly hurled at all this year, due to a sore arm. Johnny Broaca has nursed an injured arm. Spurgeon Chandler, the promising rookie pitcher, sustained a shoulder injury in June.

Budge and Mako Win Doubles To Put Team Ahead

Defeat Von Cramm and Henkel 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4 For 2 to 1 Edge in Matches

Singles Tomorrow

WIMBLEDON (CP)—Don Budge and Gene Mako of the United States today won their Davis Cup doubles match with Baron Gottfried von Cramm and Henrich Henkel, German pair.

Scores were 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4.

Their victory gave the United States a 2 to 1 lead in the inter-zone finals, with two more singles matches yet to be played, and made the young Americans strong favorites to win the series and gain the right to battle Great Britain for the coveted international trophy in the challenge round starting Saturday.

Even should Henkel defeat Bryan M. (Betsy) Grant of Atlanta, Ga., in tomorrow's singles, Budge is strongly favored to whip Von Cramm for the deciding point.

Von Cramm and Henkel won the first set, 6-4. The Germans took the first game on Von Cramm's service. The Americans came back to win the second on Budge's service. Games also followed services in the third and fourth, each reaching deuce.

The American pair cracked Von Cramm's service in the fifth game for a 3-2 lead, and then held Budge's service in the sixth for a 4-2 lead. The German won the seventh game on Henkel's service and then broke Mako's delivery in the eighth to draw level at 4-4.

Two GREAT SMASHES The Germans won the ninth game for a 5-2 lead and clinched the game with two magnificent overhead smashes.

The Teutons then took the 10th and the set, 6-4, when they broke through Budge's service.

The first two games of the second set followed service though Budge had to make a great smash to save the second on Mako's delivery.

Von Cramm held his service in the third game when Budge overhit an easy smash.

Budge, serving better than at any time during the match, tied it up again at 2-2 in the fourth game.

Budge retrieved four straight smashes, but Henkel kept whacking and won the game to give the Teutons a 3-2 lead.

Mako took the sixth game at love, but Von Cramm came right back to hold his delivery in the seventh game.

Henkel, with a chance to win the set, lost his service in the ninth game and Mako held his delivery with the loss of a single point to draw even at 5-5.

The Americans took the lead in the 11th game as Von Cramm double-faulted on game point.

Budge held his service in the 12th game to take the set at 7-5. Budge and Mako broke Henkel's service in the first game of the third set. The Germans rallied and took Mako's service in the second game.

Von Cramm held his service at love in the third game.

Budge won the fourth game on his own service and Henkel held his delivery in the fifth.

The Americans squared it again at 3-3 when Mako gave up only one point.

GERMANS RALLY The Germans, behind 15-40 in the seventh game, rallied to win it behind Von Cramm's service.

In the eighth game the Germans twice were within a point of breaking Budge's service, but excellent overhead work by Mako enabled the Americans to win the game and draw even at 4-4.

Budge and Mako twice netted Henkel's easy first service and lost the ninth game to trail at 4-5.

The Americans fought back to win the 10th game and square the set at 5-5.

The 11th game went to deuce twice before the Germans could win it.

Budge held his service in the 12th to draw even at 6-6 and the Americans then cracked Henkel's service in the 13th.

JACK KRAMER P.N.W. CHAMP

Defeats Edwin Amark in Final For Tennis Crown On Tacoma Courts

TACOMA — Jack Kramer of Montebello, Calif., former national boys' champion, annexed another tennis title Saturday, winning the men's singles championship of the Pacific Northwest tournament of the Tacoma Lawn Tennis Club.

He defeated Edwin Amark of San Francisco, a Stanford University student, 9-7, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, in one of the most bitterly contested matches of the week's play.

Diminutive Cecil Miner, hard-working mite from Long Beach, Calif., collected the women's singles championship by winning over Joan Bigler, tennis style artist from Pomona, Calif. The score was 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Kramer's victory gave him two of the five singles titles offered the contestants. Earlier in the day he had defeated Olewinski of Santa Monica, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, in the finals of the junior men's singles, open to youths of eighteen years and under.

Virginia Wolfenden and Harold Wagner of San Francisco, took the mixed doubles title from Amark and Mrs. Cross, 6-2, 3-6, 11-8.

In the men's doubles, final event of the tournament, Kramer and Olewinski defeated Amark and Jack Lundy, San Francisco, 7-9, 6-3, 0-6, 8-6, 6-1.

Mick Cochrane Attends Game

DETROIT—Mickey Cochrane, manager of Detroit Tigers, who suffered a triple fracture of the skull when he was hit two months ago by a pitched ball, yesterday saw his first baseball game since the accident.

Cochrane, able to end his hospital confinement only a few days ago, occupied a box at Navin Field yesterday and saw his team defeat Washington Senators 3 to 1.

Mainland Athlete In Aggregate Win

Archie McDiarmid, Vancouver, Stars at Highland Sports

Looming out of a skirt of pipes, the rhythm of dancing feet and a gathering of Scottish clans rarely seen in the Capital City, Archie McDiarmid, husky athlete from Vancouver, carried off aggregate honors in the track and field meet run off Saturday afternoon at Macdonald Park in conjunction with the Highland games.

As a capacity grandstand looked on, the mainland husky tossed the caber a distance of 36 feet 1 inch to win first place in that event. The throwing of the 56-pound weight brought the Vancouver athlete another win when he heaved the burden 30 feet 6 inches, while in the 28-pound weight he featured in a third victory, throwing it 53 feet 11 inches. The hammer throw completed his list of wins when he paced the field with a heave of 131 feet 8 inches.

THOMPSON WINS Bill Thompson, torchy-headed lad from James Island, was well up in the point total with 19, one behind McDiarmid. Thompson took first place in the shot-put, second places in the hurdles, the caber and the high jump, and third places in the 56-pound weight, the 28-pound weight, and the hop, step and jump.

WILLIAMS WINS Campbell Williams, young speed demon from Nanaimo, sizzled down the track to win the junior boys 100 and 220-yard dashes, nosing out John Stewart and Gil Milnes, Y.M.C.A. runners, in that order each time. The Nanaimo speedster ran the century in 10 4/5 seconds.

An unfortunate accident when he was taking a practice high jump put George "Porky" Andrews out of the running early in the programme. The popular local

Britain's Heavyweight Hope

TOMMY FARR

Latest British heavyweight contender, seen in a fighting pose. Farr, who startled the boxing world with clean-cut victories over Max Baer and Walter Neusel, has been matched with Joe Louis for a world title bout at New York in September. Farr has raised the hopes of British fans for a first world champion, and great interest is being taken in his approaching fight with the Brown Bomber from Detroit.

DiMaggio Blasts Feller Comeback

Bluebirds And Bays to Clash

This evening's box lacrosse feature will see the Bluebirds take on James Bay at the Athletic Park in the final game of the initial half of the schedule. Bids for second half honors will open Wednesday.

The game at the enclosure Saturday evening saw the Indians defeat the Canucks 11 to 8.

Clouting Joe Drives in Four Runs With Homer to Set Back Schoolboy Star

Old Blubber Malone is somewhat sore in certain portions of his anatomy today—but he figures it was worth it.

Just to keep the records straight, it must be explained that Old Blubber is a portly pitcher for the New York Yankees. Those who aren't his pals say his waistline, if stretched end to end, would make a good start on a cross-country highway.

But when he looked in from the bull pen at Cleveland yesterday and saw that home run shot of jolting Joe DiMaggio drop into the left field stands, bringing in the four runs that sent blazing Bobby Feller down to a 5 to 1 defeat, Old Blubber just had to up and turn hand springs.

The clout DiMaggio poled out with the bases loaded, to break up a honey of a ball game, also had a lot of added significance for Joe himself. It just piled on the evidence that he is the top sophomore in the baseball business this year.

Yesterday Joe hit a triple and a double as well as his homer, drove in all five of the Yankee runs, and generally put the needle in Feller's third straight futile "comeback" effort.

CUBS CLOUT BROOKLYN The Cubs clouted Brooklyn twice, 7 to 6 and 9 to 4, to retain their margin of three percentage points in the National League. The Giants stayed right in the running by finding the Cardinals a doubleheaded pusher, 6 to 5 and 11 to 0.

Peaches Davis pitched a five-hitter and Lefty Grissom produced a two-hit shutout as the Reds whipped the Boston Bees 4 to 1 and 1 to 0. The Pirates managed only an even break with the Phillies, winning the nightcap 6 to 5 in 11 innings after dropping the opener 5 to 2 to Claude Passeau's pitching.

The Tigers topped the Senators 3 to 1 on walks and errors. Chicago's climbing White Sox socked the Boston Red Sox 6 to 5 and 1

Grey Squirrels at Home

In mild weather, grey squirrels build nests in trees. These usually are located in the crotch of a trunk, or where a large limb divides into parts.

A young squirrel on back of a friendly cat. (From a photograph.)

Leaves and twigs are broken from the tree, and are used to build the walls and floor of the nest. A leafy roof is added, and then the nest is ready to be the home of young squirrels. We may call this an open-air home. It is more pleasant to live in than a hole in the tree would be in good weather. Often it is lined with moss or grass, or pieces of bark which have been chewed up to make them soft.

When cold winter days come near, the squirrels look for hollows in trunks and large limbs. In such hollows, they are better guarded against snowstorms and bitter winds.

From two to four young may be born in a grey squirrel brood. At birth they are "blind"—that is, their eyes are kept tightly closed. The eyes do not open until five weeks have gone by, at which time the baby squirrels weigh only four or five ounces apiece.

In a few cases, a baby squirrel which has lost its mother has been nursed and cared for by a house cat. After they grow to the proper age, I think it is well to let them scamper to the woods.

Squirrels can be kept as pets, but sooner or later they are likely to die in their cages, or to bite the hand of the person who feeds them. For a happy life, they need exercise, and the excitement of running up and down trees.

Ernest Thompson Seton tells of seeing a tame squirrel which had been kept as a pet for eight years by a farmer's family near the city of Toronto. He states that the squirrel "was as young-looking and active as ever it was." That is an example of something which does not happen very often. People I have known who have tried to keep squirrels as pets always have had trouble with them. In one case the story ended when the squirrel tried to escape and was killed by a dog.

In their natural homes, squirrels seem to have a good time. They scamper about, and pounce with joy on acorns or nuts they discover. Hickory nuts are the favorite food of grey squirrels. The habit of burying them for use during the winter has proved helpful to people. The nuts often are forgotten, and are likely to take root and grow. It is believed that grey squirrels planted a large proportion of present-day hickory trees.

Grey squirrels also eat berries, leaves, grain and roots. They store nuts in their nests, as well as burying them in the ground.

A squirrel called "Oswald" used to run about the Lincoln Park zoo, visiting a golf course. Oswald gathered "nuts" of a strange kind—golf balls! A keeper looked into his winter nest, and there he found 32 golf balls.

SPEAKING BY AND LARGE, and of humanity in general, middle life is not only the most dangerous, but the most unhappy period of life. It is the age of indiscretion for men and of phobias and neurosis for women; the time when people who have always been as upright and conventional as a church steeple suddenly go haywire for no apparent reason except that they are fiftyish.

We all know more than one man who after being a devoted husband and father for thirty years, as domestic as the house cat and as reliable as old Dobbin, without rhyme or reason kicks over the traces and runs wild among the wild women until he lands in the divorce court.

Likewise, we know plenty of sane and sensible wives whose middle name was Prudence until they got to be fair, fat and 40 when they suddenly developed a siren complex and went flirtatious and began dyeing their hair and painting themselves up like a barn goor and doling themselves up in flapper clothes and making eyes at boys young enough to be their sons.

And as for the women who are hale and hearty and cheerful until they are middle-aged and then develop mysterious complaints that turn them into melancholy wrecks, their name is legion. They crowd doctors' offices and fill sanatoriums and enrich high-priced specialists.

Of course, many suggestions can be offered for this curious metamorphosis in their personalities that takes place at middle age in so many people. One is that it is the last flare-up of youth, the final call to the dining car. A man and woman have been jogging along through the years, not noticing that they were getting older and still thinking that they are a mere boy and girl, then something happens that jars them into the realization that they are no longer young, that they are middle-aged.

It throws them into a panic. It makes them feel that they must grab youth with both hands and hold on to it; that they must have a last fling; that they must have another bite of romance while they still have teeth to chew it, and so we have the middle-aged men who forsake their old wives for flappers and the middle-aged women who create scandals with their goings-on with gigolos.

The dangerous thing about middle age is that it tempts us to make fools of ourselves. The tragedy of it is that it finds so many of us unprepared for it. We have known in the back of our heads that middle age was bound to come to us, as to others, and that the order of our lives was bound to be changed by time, yet we haven't done a thing toward making the transition from one stage of life to another easy and pleasant. We haven't laid up a single resource on which we can depend in our hour of need.

Up to the time they are middle-aged the average married couple have been too busy trying to make a fortune and rear a family to think about anything but the store and the house. They have got their interest and excitement and thrills and amusement out of their work; the cute things the baby said; sending John off to college and giving Mary a debut party, and they have needed nothing else.

Then suddenly it is all over. The children are married and gone about the business of life for themselves. The house that had been so gay with the coming and going of young people is empty and silent. The husband and wife are alone together as they were when they started out. Only there is this difference—that then they were lovers and now, in the great majority of cases, they are strangers.

The man has been too much absorbed in his business to keep in touch with his wife. The woman has been too much absorbed in her children to keep step with her husband. He has lived in one world and she in another so long that they do not even speak the same language and they bore each other to tears.

That is why so many men at middle age become philanderers and why so many women at middle age are peevish, fretful, morbid and make a cult of semi-invalidism. They are lonesome in their big houses when the children have left. They have no companionship with each other and the wife, at least, has nothing to do but to think of herself and worry over imaginary ills. So often is this the case that you can date the average woman's ill health from her last child's marriage.

CANCER WORK IS DESCRIBED

Former U.S. Diplomat Now Lives in England and Heads Vienna Clinic

A former member of the United States diplomatic corps, who now makes his home in England and who heads one of the major cancer clinics of Europe as "something to occupy my time," was among week-end visitors to Victoria.

Interviewed at the Empress Hotel this morning, Frederick F. A. Pearson told something of the success obtained in the treatment of cancer at his hospital in Vienna, and then said quite casually that he was not satisfied with the results, because they were so good they ought to be a lot better.

Professor Ernest Freund is the medical head of the clinic. He has given 50 years of his life to the study of the disease. He has shown how the growth of cancer can be arrested in the majority of cases. Now his object is to eradicate the tumors.

The theory on which the clinic works is that all human beings would have cancer were it not for some defence mechanism in their bodies, and that in view of the fact that the incidence of cancer is not at all proportionate to the extent of the irritation from which it starts, it ought to be possible to simulate that mechanism.

Mr. Pearson arrived here on Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Pearson and their son and daughter, Frederick Jr. and Daphne. They left this afternoon for Vancouver.

They traveled most of the way here by air and will fly back from Winnipeg to New York "because we find it cleaner and more comfortable."

Says Business Lag Salutary

The present period of business uneasiness in the United States and the strikes which are accompanying it, will eventually be of benefit, in the opinion of J. Lovelace, Los Angeles investment trust head, who is staying at the Empress Hotel at present.

The staff of his company, which had studied the whole financial situation in the United States thoroughly, felt that the present "period of hesitation" was serving to slow down speculation, especially in commodities, and was building a firmer basis for a genuine recovery which was gaining momentum whatever the effect of government activities might be, he said.

INVITE PUBLIC TO EXHIBITION

General Motors Directors Tell of "Progress Parade," Now in Vancouver

Extending an invitation to General Motors dealers and the public of Victoria to attend the "General Motors Parade of Progress" in Vancouver, several directors of the company addressed a luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel Saturday. About 40 members of local and Nanaimo staffs attended.

Showing to record-breaking crowds in the mainland city, the exhibition is described as a "World's Fair on Wheels." It was inspired by Charles F. Kettering, internationally known scientist, and is a scientific wonderland, housed in a fleet of mammoth trucks. Latest inventions and electric phenomena are combined to give the audience a glimpse into future developments.

Due to the size of the trucks which house the exhibition, it cannot be transported to Victoria; consequently anyone wishing to see this educational exhibit must visit Vancouver. It opened last Thursday and will show until Wednesday from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10.

Those attending the luncheon from the mainland were James Lister, zone manager for General Motors in British Columbia; Albert Cox, district manager for General Motors in this province; R. S. Withers and Ray Webb, members of General Motors research department, New York, and G. Stephens, manager for McLaren Advertising Company in British Columbia.

Beats Middlekauf With Flying Tackles; Thunderbird Given Bout

Gaining falls with his flying tackle in the fourth and fifth rounds, Billy Hansen, 215-pound Salt Lake City, grappler, defeated Billy Middlekauf, 240, Florida, in Saturday night's wrestling card main event at the Tillicum gym.

Middlekauf took the first fall in the third round, but went down to the battering he received in the fourth and fifth.

In the semi-windup, Abe "King Kong" Kashey, 213, slammed Pete Managof, 212, Chicago, for a one-fall victory in the third.

Fighting in and out of the ring, Chief Thunderbird, 220, Saanich, gained a one-fall verdict over Albert Mills, 224, Toronto. Mills was reputedly kicked in the mouth as the pair grappled in the aisles, and was unable to continue when he climbed back into the ring.

Jimmy Casey and Young Sarpolis wrestled to a no-fall draw in the local preliminary.

LARGEST SET EVER BUILT

"Cafe Metropole," at Atlas Theatre Today, Makes Film History

In the motion-picture world, the milestones upon the road of production progress are often marked by outstanding sets, looming in the history of the movies just as triumphal arches mark the paths of conquerors in the history of mankind. The most triumphal of these, the largest set ever built for any motion picture, is that of "Cafe Metropole," Twentieth Century-Fox romance opening today at the Atlas Theatre, with Loretta Young, Tyrone Power and Adolphe Menjou in the starring roles.

The va-ess of the "Cafe Metropole" set recalls other monumental scenic achievements, such as the huge plaster-cast elephants which, with upraised trunks, guarded the gates of Babylon in D. W. Griffith's trail-blazing "Intolerance."

COWBOY TAMES RACING AUTO

The startling consequences when a cowboy, accustomed to riding wild horses, makes his first acquaintance with an automobile forms the basis for Universal's exciting and hilariously funny "Ride 'Em Cowboy," which opens at the Columbia Theatre today, starring Buck Jones.

Possessing a highly developed tendency for getting into trouble, the cowboy projects himself into the seat of a racing car when he knows as little about automobiles as he does about prehistoric monsters. But the cowboy is not used to being thrown by horses, automobiles or the sinister forces plotting his downfall. The result is whirlwind action.

The second feature presents Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler in "Shipmates Forever."

FOUR STARS IN REHEARSAL

Flawless Performances Required in "Libeled Lady" at Plaza

Even the greatest film stars must rehearse for the scenes that later appear as flawless performances on the screen, and often the rehearsals develop into long and arduous hours.

Jack Conway is one director who demands letter-perfect rehearsals before a camera is aimed at his players, and in his latest assignment his duties were fourfold. In the new M-G-M hit, "Libeled Lady," opening today at the Plaza Theatre, Conway had four stars to rehearse and direct, instead of the usual one star. They were Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy and Spencer Tracy.

GAYNOR TEAMS WITH TAYLOR

"Small Town Girl" Grand Entertainment at Oak Bay Theatre

For real entertainment with thrills, laughs, tears and action, "Small Town Girl," starring Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor, the current attraction at the Oak Bay Theatre, is worth seeing.

The new screen team of Miss Gaynor and Taylor wins a place in the heart of every playgoer.

Both reach new heights in the stirring story about a modern run-away marriage brought about by the rural girl's effort to escape the boredom of a small town that is snuffing out her life.

The role of Parnell is played by Clark Gable.

"Night Must Fall" Coming

Something decidedly new comes to the screen of the Dominion Theatre tomorrow in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Night Must Fall," with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell.

Skilfully directed by Richard Thorpe, this daring story presents an entirely new technique for crime fiction on the screen. Without the element of mystery, a killer whose mission is known to the audience before he starts to act.

The supporting cast includes May Whitty, Merle Tottenham, Matthew Boulton and Kathleen Harrison.

"Night Must Fall" is different, daring and decidedly entertaining screen fare.
